TLPOA

The home owners expressed a concern about the pressures in the fire hydrants. The issue was raised that the fire department never hooked up to the hydrants. David Hansen asked who responded to the call. Jody stated that they could not get the ladder truck up there. Steve Farrell stated that the prv's were at 45 at that hydrant. Per Jody they never hooked up the truck to it due to the concern of collapsing the water line. They had several trucks there and the fireman flat out lied to Jody there and that the fire department needs to be educated on our system. David recommended that we have the fire department come up and do a flow test on it.

Also, there is a valve that got run over by the HOA maintenance guy ran over the flag and one of our guy hit it with a back hoe so we capped them until winter is over and are easier to repair. David agreed that it would be better to wait until the thaw happens to repair this.

David asked if we should concrete around these valves that have the potential to be hit. By concreting these it may cause other access issues.

Work on concreting around the hydrants overtime as needed. Bonnie asked about sprinkler systems requirements, but Mike stated that if you lose power then it does no good to have them. David told Bonnie that the flows are what they are unless we make major changes in the system again and also have the fire department test the flows and there are multiple hydrants that the fire department can use. Supposedly there is a ladder truck up in Timber Lakes.

John stated that the HOA should take it up with someone other than the water district if the fire department cannot get up the roads due to conditions caused by weather.

Then the guys are going to a conference down in Saint George and will get most of their continuing education completed.
